FOREWORD

N this, "The Cincinnatian of 1918," we have sought to make the interesting resume' of a year the lasting remembrance of a lifetime. In form and arrangement we have followed time-honored custom, in the belief that in so doing we more deeply root the quiet dignity of tradition. In accord with the spirit of the day, as well as under stern compulsion of necessity, we have reduced the size of the work. Due to thrifty planning and studied compactness, we believe that "The Cincinnatian of 1918" contains its portion of those frank joys and youthful sorrows which we are able to grasp from the fleeting path of time—and, having grasped them, to render their impress for the coming years.

The University—Past and Present

THE history of the University of Cincinnati has been the gradual realization of a dream—the dream of Charles McMicken. Beginning with the mere glow of a vision in the mind of that generous and public-spirited benefactor, it has evolved with an extraordinarily rapid progress, increasing in size, achievement, and influence, until we may now safely say that it is the greatest municipal university in the world. For although many cities are striving to emulate the great educational work of Cincinnati, none have as yet surpassed it, or even equalled it.

It is noteworthy that the only state whose code expressly permits cities to establish municipal universities, and levy a special tax for the purpose, is Ohio. The University of Cincinnati was incorporated upon the passage by the General Assembly of the state in 1870, of the act enabling cities “to aid and promote education.” A less idealistic, but none the less interesting, phase of Ohio educational legislation, is the authorization by the state legislature, in 1807, of a lottery to endow an educational institution. A few tickets were even sold, but the lottery was never materialized.

Seven years after this unsuccessful attempt, in 1814, a small group of citizens organized and established the Cincinnati-Lancaster Seminary upon the site of the present Mercantile Library Building. In the early thirties this was re-organized and the Medical and Law Schools were at the same time affiliated. Then, in 1845, the building burned and the Law School alone survived. The Cincinnati Law School, founded in 1833, was the fourth institution of its kind in this country, those of Harvard, Yale, and the University of Virginia alone preceding it.

The will of Charles McMicken, who died in 1858, provided that the bulk of his estate, which was valued at about $1,000,000, be used to found “two colleges for the education of white girls and boys.” Almost one-half of the property (in Louisiana) was lost by the decision of the Supreme Court, and the remainder, not sufficient for the organization of two such colleges, was, for the next ten years, devoted to the increase of the McMicken fund.

In 1870, as has been mentioned, the University of Cincinnati was incorporated, and the city issued its first university bonds in 1875. Instruction had been begun in 1874 on Franklin Street, with a small faculty of teachers from Woodward High School. The first university building was that upon the site of the old McMicken homestead on Clifton Avenue, the same building which has until recently been occupied by the Medical College. The next great step in the extension of the institution was the removal in 1895 to McMicken Hall, the nucleus of the still-increasing aggregate of beautiful buildings in Burnet Woods.

There is a considerable list of social-spirited men and women who, by their generous gifts, have greatly hastened the expansion of the University. Some of our buildings bear the names of several of them. Hanna Hall, the gift of Henry Hanna, was added in 1896. Four years later, Briggs Cunningham made possible the erection of its twin building, Cunningham Hall. Van Wormer Library was begun the following year. During the next ten years, however, in spite of great internal growth, no new buildings were added. Then, in 1911, the Engineering Building was completed, closely followed by the Gymnasium and the Power Plant. A bond issue was soon authorized which made possible the erection of the Stadium on Carson Field. The Chemistry Building and the new Medical College near the City Hospital have but very recently been occupied. The latest addition is, however, the beautiful Woman's Building, splendidly equipped with gymnasium, swimming pool, and rooms for various college activities, as well as providing an establishment for the Household Arts Department. The bequest of the Baldwin estate in 1917, valued between six and seven hundred thousands of dollars, gives another opportunity for extension. The very recent gift of Mrs. Wilson, a Cincinnati woman, who realized the great need of the University for an auditorium, makes possible the erection and equipment of a convocation hall, to be known as the Obed J. and Amanda Landrum Wilson Memorial Hall. Dormitories, made necessary by the ever-increasing attendance of out-of-town students, will, it is hoped, be next realized.

This great material expansion has been accompanied, or rather necessitated, by a correspondingly increasing growth in the size of the student body, which is now made up of over 3000 students, an increase of four hundred per cent in the past twelve years. The University, it is generally believed, has succeeded in its constant endeavor to serve the interests of the community of which it is such an integral part, and to make its educational activities more vital by a hearty co-operation with the various groups of activity under civic control. In these many ways the University is ever broadening and expanding, developing along lines of efficiency, co-operation and service, toward the achievement of that truly noble ideal which she has set for herself in the words of her motto: "Alta petit."

Benefactors of the University

THE very recent gift of Mrs. O. J. Wilson for the erection of a convocation hall recalls the many other friends of the University of Cincinnati, who, following the example of Charles McMicken, have builded everlastingly on his foundation. The bequest in 1858 of the McMicken estate to found an institution in which students should "receive the benefit of a sound, thorough and practical education" was soon followed by the liberal gifts of other generous spirited citizens, who have made possible its unusually rapid growth and progress.

In 1872, the Cincinnati Astronomical Society transferred its property, books and instruments to the city on condition that an observatory be maintained in connection with the University. In the same year, John Kilgour contributed the grounds for an observatory and a fund for the erection of the building. Fired with a noble spirit of emulation, Julius Dexter, in the year following, made a gift towards its endowment. During the next few years, bequests were made by Samuel J. Browne and Matthew Thoms to the General Endowment Fund. In 1895, Henry Hanna built and equipped Hanna Hall, the erection of whose companion building was made possible a few years later by the generosity of Briggs S. Cunningham. About this same time were received the gift of the library building from Asa Van Wormer, and the endowment by David Sinton for a Professorship of Economics. The building and equipment of the Technical School, transferred to the University in 1901, were realized by gifts from James E. Mooney and members of the Board of Trustees. The Misses Mary P. and Eliza O. Ropes gave in their wills, in 1907, a fund for the Nathaniel Ropes Foundation for the Comparative Study of Literature, while in 1912, Mrs. Floris Armstrong Sackett left a fund which has been applied to the partial endowment of a Chair of Domestic Arts. Only a year ago was announced the liberal bequest of Francis H. Baldwin, who left in his will the residue of his estate to the General Endowment Fund of the University, without limitation or condition of any sort.

There have been many other gifts, too many for any adequate individual acknowledgment here, gifts for the building and equipment of the College of Medicine, gifts to the Library, Museum and Woman's Building, endowments for scholarships and prizes, and for such special purposes as the support of the School of Household Arts and the Medical Clinic, and the equipment of the gymnasium and athletic field.

These many generous gifts and liberal endowments show how greatly interested are the people of Cincinnati in the institution which, by reason of its devotion to the ideals of scholarship and its co-operation with city undertakings, represents, more than any other, the spirit of civic enterprise and education.

THE CLASSES

The History of 1918

IN the year 1914, in the month of September, on the 27th day of the month, a host of half a thousand newcomers arrived at McMicken on the hill.

They came as strangers and remained as friends. It was a turning point in the life of the college; successes unnumbered for the "Frosh;" the Fresh-Soph contest, the Freshman Dance, the Freshman Farce in the Vaudeville. No Vigilance Committee, not even the Woman's, especially conceived for 1918 Freshwomen, could stop their progress. Led by Arthur Osborne, Elizabeth Crawford, Henry Nagel and Cherrington Fisher, the "Frosh" stayed on, and whither they went, luck was sure to go, for the name of 1918 was charmed.

September of the following year found 1918 minus a little Freshman reticence, and bereft of a few of the "less favored" with the Faculty. But the fame of the class went on and Herman Rogatzky, Leslie Williams, Mary Corre and Robert Mayer took the management of its affairs well in hand. The Sophs sent four delegates to the newly organized Student Council, skillfully forgot Freshman habits, and prepared for the happy future of upper classmanship.

As Juniors, 1918 was even more illustrious. In athletics, in literary fields, in dramatics, in social events—everywhere they shone. Harold Talcott as president, Helen Sammet as vice-president, Vivian Millar, secretary, and Clifford Ahlers, treasurer, officiated ably. The Junior Prom assumed unprecedented social prominence; The Cincinnati and the Junior-Senior Take Off were huge successes.

And then, when 1918 reached its Senior year, the climax of everything loomed forth. Unfortunately its ranks were reduced, for many of its members had enlisted in the United States Service. The class missed them greatly, but with graduation so near, it forged on. Class affairs flourished under Carl Markgraf, Dorothy Brown, Miriam Romaine and Harold Altamer. The Senior Hop was an enjoyable "war-time" dance. The year was full of Red Cross Drives, War Fund Campaigns and War Work. But 1918 was capable of heading it all, modestly leading the college in its triumph. Graduation was a fitting close to a career of frankness, fraternity and fidelity. All hail, 1918!

Junior History

YOU have all read the fairy tale of the "Man who could never learn to shiver or shake," haven't you? Well! we, as members of the Freshman class of 1919, did immediately declare upon our entrance to Old McMicken that that man never went to Varsity. He couldn't possibly have gone through the tortures of registration and being initiated into college life, without quivering in his boots. But we even achieved fame, under the capable leadership of Walter Haehnle, Margaret Green, Mary Patterson and John Whitely, by the humiliating beating which we gave our friends (?) the Sophomores. (See the casualty list of Sophomores in the Times Star, October 1, 1915.)

We fooled them all right, by doing such extraordinary things that they had to recognize our superiority to all other Freshman classes. We even crowned ourselves with glory by bestowing a gift upon the Woman's Building, which was then being introduced into University life, as we had been in September, a thing unheard of before, but we were most unusual, you know.

It is a Varsity tradition that the Soph year is a dull one, but it was absolutely impossible to reduce our activity. Even though we were slightly smaller in number the next year, we had no less "pep." Just remember all the tea-dances with which we livened up your bookish lives and our individual achievements! And our sketch in the Vodvil, well—that won't be forgotten for years! We were right there when it came to athletics and always left the Frosh feeling as though they needed an ambulance and some stretcher-bearers after a contest with them. But why shouldn't we have distinguished ourselves with Ed. Powers, Dotty Cone, Bob Todd and Anne Stephens as officers.

We have succeeded in gaining so much honor and glory that now in our Junior year we feel that we deserve our title of "The Class that Made U. C. Famous." Everything has changed this year, even the Commons, where the Co-eds now sit and knit instead of holding receptions for their admirers. We have lost most of our boys, who have joined the colors, we have lost our desire to be amused in the desire to do war work, and still we do not complain. Athletics have suffered, notwithstanding the fact that the girls have done everything possible and impossible. Earl Widau, Martha Anderson, Alexander Patterson and Catherine Snow ably led our mighty throng and succeeded in having, a thing heretofore unheard of, a class-meeting with every member (not to mention the Seniors who sought our higher circle) attending. Watch dear old Varsity thrive next year under the leadership of the Senior Class.

Sophomore History

FROM pure force of instinct I was going to say that on the first day we freshies "tremblingly entered the awe-inspiring portals of the front door" when it occurred to me that most of us didn't. In fact, some of us, reading the green Frosh sign tacked on the wormy fence post at the entrance of the campus, were so superlatively eager to start out in the proper spirit of humility, that we entered upon our University career via the cellar, crawling meekly over piles of old carpet and between kegs of cement. Perchance some of the energetic soul of George was breathed unto us there in his stronghold, for from that day we shook off our humility and became sassy. Our boys were the friskiest brood the old hens on the Vigilance had ever undertaken to rear. Half of our early attempts at class-meetings were broken up because the masculine members were being ducked in the lake, to the horror of Dr. Williams—or pursued with that end in view. We all remember a certain historic class meeting—somewhat of a farce—when most of our sturdy athletes being detained on pressing business, to put it lightly, a vast delegation of girls and about three boys elected Bob Hopkins cheer-leader. Our officers that year were Richard Griffin, president, Dorothy Sisson, vice-president; Esther Sechrist, secretary; Donald Patterson, treasurer.

In athletics we did nothing startling. The boys lost the mat-rush, but won Contest Day. The girls lost their Contest Day to the Sophs, but let us gloss over that.

This year we carry on our assemblies in the History room with our president Cy Osborne, occasionally Sylvia Luebbert, our vice-president, conducting the meeting. Arlie Daniels is secretary, and Kenneth Greiser is treasurer. We don't have class meetings very often, but when we do, they are hair-raising, to say the least. Who will ever forget that first one, when some nefarious Co-op put up for Woman's League representatives a certain young man whose name, for charitable reasons, shall be veiled in obscurity.

We are still dubious in athletics. The boys did not win the Contest Day, but they won the mat-rush. As for the girls, they are, of course, beautiful and brilliant, but singularly unathletic. Some day we hope they will alarm the world with an athletic victory, but if they don't, they'll shine in some other way.

Next year we shall cast off the shackles of Gym and of Hygiene, and have some real fun. Then we shall show you that we are worthy of a "history," not the kind that means a "dark past," but one of glowing achievements.

Freshmen History

SLAP—BANG—hear the noise. That's us! Who are we? The Freshmen! What are we doing here? Chiefly furnishing the upperclassmen with amusement and subject for jokes—otherwise to acquire some learning. We've picked a great bunch to boss the job. There's the president, "Stew" Garrison, he's just like he sounds. Al Wilkerson is treasurer, we can trust him with the funds—we think. Sue Wilson is vice-president and Cuba Mitchell, secretary. We had to give some offices to the girls to get soft with them.

We're a nifty bunch of scrappers, we are, even if we do say so ourselves. This is our only chance to tell you how good we really are, so don't mind if we put it on thick! Take that mat-rush with the Sophs, for instance. What we did to them was a plenty. Talk about Young Men's Ready to Wear! It surely was a "bare" victory for the Sophs. And Contest Day, well, we have a heart. There's no use talking we surely cleaned up on the gang.

And didn't those vigilance people think they were smart. But they couldn't put anything over on us. They thought they would get all the Frosh girls by forbidding us to talk to them. Of course, we wore the caps and the buttons, but that's all. Believe me, many is the Frosh that could tell of cosy little places about which the vigilantes knew nothing, where one could fuss in peace and quiet. (P. S. See Heiney Fenley for details.)

Believe me, Varsity couldn't get along without us. Who supports all activities worth while supporting. We do! Who attends all Varsity football games, dances, etc. We do! We look like a heterogeneous gang now, but in our midst are the artists, poets, engineers, ball players and bums of the coming generation.

We have only one thing more to say—look out for us in the future.

THE ATHLETES

Athletic Committee

1917 - 1918

NO radical changes in the personnel of the Committee on Athletics have taken place during the collegiate year of 1917 and 1918. The character of its powers has also undergone no decided change, all athletics remaining under the direct control of the faculty.

The committee, however, has put forth its best efforts in handling all of the athletic problems. The patriotic duty performed by many of our best athletes in answering the call to colors has increased the many athletic problems two-fold.

However, successful and efficient administration of all student athletics has been the keynote of the committee at all times.

Physical Education for University Men and Women

By Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams

THE war goes on! The peoples of the world are separated into two large groups in contest for the triumph of an ideal. One group representing the doctrine of force and ruthless domination of land and peoples, comprises a nation of great physical vigor and intensive loyalty to the Fatherland; the other group representing democratic principles of government, the sanctity of treaties and international law, comprises peoples in whom the "laissez faire" doctrine has been conspicuous and no effective organization for the promotion of physical vigor or loyalty has existed.

We find ourselves in this latter group and should be concerned with certain aspects of the situation that are important for winning the war and for adequate development of our democracy in the world.

The Provost Marshal General reports a rejection of 29.11 per cent of men called for service in the National Army. The Medical Corps at the cantonments has rejected from 2 to 11 per cent of those accepted. The total rejections therefore are somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent.

The examination of the freshmen and sophomore men and women shows that the rejections for students at the University would be as high. It is therefore important to emphasize for university students the necessity that exists for them to prepare themselves, to preserve and improve in every possible way their physical vigor and health. This call comes to both men and women.

One of the difficulties in the democratic group at war has been lack of unity, lack of loyalty and enthusiasm for prosecution of the war. It is expected that university students should be loyal to ideals, and with the splendid record of this University in service to the nation there should be just pride, but there is need for more loyalty and enthusiasm for the University itself, its teams, its life, and its enterprises. Loyalty to a defeated football team may quite readily be sublimated into loyalty for a nation struggling against a more powerful adversary. Loyalty and enthusiasm, sometimes called "college spirit," are developed by being loyal to and supporting athletic teams, dramatics, debate and other interests of college life.

The department of physical education is interested not only in good vision, sound teeth and strong muscles; it is also concerned with the type of loyalty and enthusiasm Varsity produces. It is not necessary that Varsity defeat Miami, but it is of extreme importance that students of the University give undivided, full allegiance to the life of the University. There can be no half-way house. Fifty students at a football game represent a "contemptible little army" when measured by the number of students in attendance, but this same fifty can be expected to stick to causes and put up a fight in the world, as courageous, as successful as that of the British at Mons.

In this day when great changes are being made in government, in politics, in thought and action of all kind, physical vigor and spiritual strength are indispensable.

Athletics as a Preparation for War

By Dr. Morrison

SPORTS and athletics have proven valuable to nations as a means of preparation for war. History shows that nations have been made more powerful as a result of participation in athletics, and today we see evidence of it in the armies engaged in the present world war.

The military authorities of this country believe that in athletics they have one of the best means of training our new National Army. Athletic sports, therefore, are playing a prominent part in the activities of the soldiers in the various training camps throughout the country.

Athletics have their value for the officer as well as the private. Wellington said, "The battles of England were won on the playgrounds of Eton," and Lord Kitchener voiced the same sentiment when he said, "No matter how many were shot, a country so fond of athletic sports as England will never lack for officers."

There are many reasons why athletics are valuable in the training of the soldier. All physical education in the army must be practical. Athletics are practical in organization, in application and in results. In them we reproduce a large number of essentially useful acts and our movements are more natural than in any other form of exercise. It takes but little training to make a first-class soldier out of a man who is a good athlete.

The qualifications that go to make up a good athlete are the same that are required of a good soldier. The soldier needs the strength requisite in opening holes and plunging through the line; he needs the speed necessary on the basketball floor or in getting down the football field under punts; he needs the skill necessary to get off a successful forward pass and he needs the cunning necessary in the generalship of a close baseball or football game.

The mental and moral qualities developed on the athletic field are also of great value to the soldier. Athletics develop courage, resourcefulness and self-reliance. These are essential in war. Athletics teach a man the practical meaning of self-sacrifice, obedience, discipline, subordination and preparedness. The athlete learns self-control. He learns to co-operate and work with other men. Athletics teach a man to be loyal. They teach him to be modest and courteous in victory and to maintain his self-respect and good temper in defeat.

Varsity Club

The Organization of "C" Men

OUR "Varsity Club" was founded in the spring of 1916. The purpose of the club is to bind together more closely those men who have been rewarded the coveted "C." Its membership is not restricted to any particular group of athletes, but "C" men from all sports are invited to join.

By the combined and concentrated efforts of its members, who have one thing in common, the club has striven to give future athletics all the necessary support and backing, if we are to have successful teams.

VARSITY closed one of the most unsuccessful football seasons in years, failing to score a single point during all the games. Handicapped by injuries, and beset by every form of hoodoo known to the football world, the big "Red and Black Team" fought pluckily in an effort to bring home at least one victory.

The loss of the whole of last year's seasoned team through enlistments and a large part of the Freshman squad, made prospects seem very dark at the beginning of the season. Spurred on by the abnormal conditions existing in athletics, forty-five candidates turned out for the Varsity Squad. Then desertions and injuries began to come fast, and by the time Miami Day arrived only about twenty men remained.

Opening the season with Earlham, Varsity went down to defeat at the hands of that college 19-0. The team fought hard, Earlham earning but one of her three touchdowns, two being made on misdirected passes.

Coming back after a week of night practice, Varsity came out of the Wittenberg game at the short end of a 7-0 score.

Varsity then proceeded to buck up against Marietta College, one of the strongest teams in Ohio. But due to the absence of Captain Talcott, Shryock and other regulars, she was handicapped and Marietta ran up the score of 53-0.

We then proceeded to play Ohio University on a sloppy field in a steady rain; the Ohio squad found it possible to slide forward on a run while Varsity floundered in the opposite direction. The Green and White however, managed to cover twenty-two points.

Traveling to Delaware, the Red and Black squad also took the short end of a 48-0 score on Edward's Field at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan. Wide tackle plays and wonderful interference carried the ball down the field repeatedly for the Methodists.

Then came two weeks of intensive training, drilling the squad in a series of trick plays that would have swept Miami's defense off its feet. But as fate would have it, it rained and quarterback Eilers was unable to use these plays because of the mud-covered field. Miami, however, was forced to fight every minute of the game to earn her forty points and Varsity was within scoring distance several times.

Coach Marty

COACH Frank Marty, Varsity's football coach for the collegiate year of 1917-18, is a graduate of Kenyon, '13, where he starred in football, having played tackle, half and quarter. His work under coaches Pierce and Watus, of Kenyon, was such as to attract the attention of local professional teams, of which he made a splendid success.

Coach Marty has the bull-dog driving power needed in football, together with a diplomatic ability to make the team a unit. He has the power of impressing his men with the fact that teamwork is of far greater importance than individual starring. Coach Marty became popular when he told the Student Body, that the Varsity Squad was in no worse shape this year than last. And to borrow his own words, he said, "The team is a green one, but I have never seen a better and more willing bunch of men."

Not enough can be said for "Frank" as a football coach, and he deserves exceptional credit for the work which he accomplished during the past season. "All Hail the Coach!"

Herbert C. Jones

Football Manager

STARS may come and stars may go, but the student body will always recognize in our "Baby" Jones the biggest measure of Cincinnati Spirit ever crowded into a little 98-pound package.

The ability of "Baby" Jones as a manager cannot be questioned, and as the head of the Physical Educational Department remarked, "Jones has been one of the most efficient and successful managers which the college has ever produced." His untiring efforts to boost "Varsity Athletics," backed up by 98 pounds of solid college "pep," have indeed won a place for him in the hearts of every loyal U. C. student.

"Lest we forget," Howard Stapleton, basket-ball manager, also deserves praise for his untiring efforts to boost Varsity Athletics.

Our old reliable "Cheer Leader," "Whitey Rover," deserves considerable credit for his faithful and untiring efforts to produce volumes of sound from a handful of spirited Varsity Rooters.

Last but not least by any means, a few words about our Assistant Coach, Dave Reece.

Dave Reece is a former Denison star, and without question one of the most popular athletes in the state. He captained all of Denison's Athletic Teams during his stay there, which, by the way, is quite an athletic record for one man to hold. Dave assisted Coach Marty in the coaching of the backfield and ends. Under his direction the men would throw and receive forward passes and learn the art of punting, "Davy" instructing them in the fine points of the game.

Throughout the season, "Dave" was always on hand ready to help the fellows, and at the close of the football schedule there was not a better liked, more dependable, more unassuming man on the field.

The Miami Game

IT was a dull, dark day, that 29th of November, and it had been a dull, dark week. Only two Saturdays before the team had been defeated by the Frosh Team, Darby, the big tackle, could not be in the game, Davis, who had been counted on to give an account of himself in this great game, had enlisted, the whole lineup was uncertain, the coach reticent, and the student body gloomy. Over Carson Field hung a cloud of gloom, about the campus lurked a suspicion of inevitable defeat, enthusiasm was missing, but everywhere was a tense grim feeling of fight, of determination, and of never give up spirit. Despite the seemingly hopeless odds, the old Varsity spirit was there, was in every practice under the electric lights, in every sharp cry of the quarterback, in every weary run to the gym, and was a factor more potent than ever before.

The day broke gray and dull and by ten o'clock it was raining, but still hundreds, defying the rain that swirled about them, and the wind that whipped their noses, determined to see the game.

It was the big intersectional battle of the season, the meeting of two strong representative teams, and the little groups of red and white invaders were delegations of jubilant Oxforders who saw only victory as in the two former years. The teams had trained, planned and practiced for this one short hour, and now awaited the final test. The final touches had been made, the final plays given out, the final instructions whispered, and now hundreds of rooters and enthusiasts impatiently awaited the opening whistle.

Hidden away from the turmoil and excitement of the crowds, nervous and yet anxious for the game, were the two teams, the two coaches strangely quiet, the air surcharged with suppressed energy and determination.

Long before the hour of the game the small crowd slowly snaked its way to the bleachers. Loaded with mats, blankets and umbrellas, they sought their seats, pressing against the fairly stiff gale in their enthusiasm, laughing at the rain that raged. Out on the field trotted the cheer masters and small waves of sound crashed from the bleachers, and reverberated through the valley. But there was a difference even in the yells; that of Miami, like one already shouting over the victory; that of Cincinnati, like the hoarse challenge of an animal at bay. The rival bands marched onto the field, the war songs of the two colleges were caught up and carried along by the wind.

The Varsity team trotted onto the field early, but the Miami squad was delayed and the small crowd fumed and fretted over the delay. The annual snapshot picture men were hard at work, dashing about with huge cameras, cheer leaders were performing antics, and the two teams racing up and down the field in the warming up. The two Captains, Talcott and McVay, met and flipped the coin. It was Varsity's lucky choice and they chose the kick-off, defending the south goal. The stands grew strangely silent, a tense line of Cincinnati warriors crouched in the middle of the field; there was the referee's whistle, the thud of the ball, and the game was on.

In the first quarter Miami received Fick's kick-off, and with no respect for the Varsity line, insisted upon hammering away at it until Pearson walked over with a score. This inconsiderate action put a little more life into the Varsity Squad, and the men fought for the remainder of the quarter.

When the second quarter started, Miami had the advantage of having the ball on Varsity's five-yard line. The big Red and White leader thought it was a suitable time to increase his lead and ordered one of his men to take the ball across. This Miami lad was willing, but found the try for goal a more difficult undertaking. Another score resulted when the line failed to hold and quarterback Eiler's punt was blocked. Miami, of course, was near enough to fall on the oval for a touchdown.

Coming back from a heart-to-heart talk with Coach Marty, Varsity played the Oxford team off its feet in the third quarter. Miami threatened to score several times but each time Varsity braced and took the ball on downs.

In the fourth period three more scores resulted for Miami, when her men carried the ball between the posts. This same quarter furnished a surprise for Varsity rooters, when Bauer opened up with a series of new formations and trick plays that fairly stood Miami on her head. However, the team lacked the punch to put it over.

The day was done and it was still dull and dark. Out of the gates poured the small crowd of enthusiasts, stiff with cold and fatigue, hoarse, tired, but they had seen a plucky fight. They had seen a great game, despite the loss. It was not so much the loss of this game, but the fact that we had closed another scoreless season. Away down in the hearts of the alumni, of the undergraduates, of the strangers, was a deep thought. Battered by ill luck, weakened by injuries and misfortune, disheartened by defeat, looked upon as a sure loser by the world, what could be worse. However, each and every one of the above-mentioned groups resolved that they were proud of their Varsity just the same, and with a little more grit and determination during the future season, would prove to the world that she was not beaten, but was still a power, still every inch a champion.

HAROLD P. TALCOTT, L. G., Lanesboro, Mass.

"Captain" Talcott, our own Bill, showed fine sportsmanlike spirit throughout the entire season in spite of the overwhelming odds. If personality had anything to do with winning games, we sure would have carried off the honors. However, "Bill" fought pluckily throughout the season, and in the Miami Game, showed the old spirit of "Do or Die."

CARL H. "DOC" ROGATZKY, F. B., Cincinnati, Ohio

Too much can not be said about our "Doc," the man that made the 440-yard run famous. As the call for the "Pig-Skin Warriors" echoed through dear old McMicken, "Doc" was one of the few who heeded the call. This was "Doc's" first experience at football, but he did not melt away, but showed his true mettle. He learned the game fast and starred in the Miami game.

EDWIN F. BAUER, L. H., Cincinnati, Ohio

"Eddy," like many another Varsity man, gave away forty or fifty pounds to his man, and then proceeded to give the battle of his life. He was one of the fastest, most slippery men on the team, and a born tackler and ground gainer. As for "pep," we sincerely believe that "Eddy" slept, ate and drank it continually. The Senior Civils will vouch for this.

RANSOM D. KENNY, R. H., Sidney, Ohio

"Kinney" was a little late in getting into his "pig-skin garments," but in the latter part of the season he proved himself a tackler sure, and a fast runner with the ball. Signs of promise are not needed in this man.

ELVAN R. BABYLON, L. T., Piqua, Ohio

"Baby" showed a snappy, aggressive game throughout the entire season and there was not a better liked, more dependable, more unassuming man on the field. We expect a lot from this man in the fall.

JOHN F. TORRENCE, R. G., Hamilton, Ohio

"Johnny" is a good example of what one year of hard work will do in developing a football player. He was a loyal member of the team from start to finish, and proved to be a valuable asset at right guard. Should he be here next fall we expect to hear from him.

RAYMOND H. HUCKE, R. T., Elmwood Place, Ohio

"Ray" was one of the best tacklers on the team and an excellent defensive player. Aside from his plucky fight in the Miami game, we can't help from recalling his splendid work in the Wittenberg game. Breaking through the defense our "Ray" threw Wittenberg twice for a total loss of seventeen yards.

HERBERT N. WEST, H. B., Cincinnati, Ohio

"Herby's" ability as a track man is unquestioned, for he trips over the cinder oval like a Hudson Super-Six encircling the oval at Sharonville. As a football player he is a trifle new at the game, but has fought pluckily against men forty or fifty pounds heavier and we have found nothing to be ashamed of. We wish him the best of luck in his new sport.

CHARLES S. SHRYOCK, C., Zanesville, Ohio

"Charlie" is our next year's captain, and has richly earned the honor. Our steady, reliable old center was invaluable to the team by virtue of his excellent passing. Whenever there was any hard work to be done, he was there with the goods. Although this was only "Charlie's" second year of football, he was the backbone of the team and one of the most popular men on the field, shown by the recent election.

GEORGE H. EILERS, Q. B., Cincinnati, Ohio

"Georgie" could be depended upon to get the ball out dangerous territory by the magic of his toe. His punting of was not exceptional, but he made a creditable showing behind a line that made a quick getaway imperative. As for catching punts, they'd never leave his embrace.

ROBERT G. SARVIS, R. E., Cincinnati, Ohio

Although this was "Bob's" first year of college football, he showed exceptionally good football tactics, despite frequent absence from town on account of work. "Lest we forget," it was "Bob" who, on Miami day, caught one of those welcomed forward passes and tripped up the field for twenty yards.

JOHN E. FICK, L. E., Canton, Ohio

This was "Johnny's" first appearance in collegiate football and he has indeed made a creditable showing on the gridiron. If at any time during the game things looked blue for the "Varsity," Johnny, by the use of his magic toe would immediately remove the ball from the dangerous territory.

HERMAN KNORR, H. B., Springfield, Ohio

"Hermey" was an ever willing, loyal and dependable member of the team. He proved himself to be a sure tackler and a fast runner with the ball, and with a little more experience will undoubtedly capture one of the coveted "C's," having missed the chance this season by the small margin of one quarter of a game.

CHARLES E. CONSTABLE, G., Oakley, Ohio

Old Constable "Charlie's" favorite expression is still ringing in our ears, and we take this opportunity of introducing the same to you: "Bust 'em up fellows, let's turn the cards." Because of this untiring fighting spirit, "Charlie" has won a place for himself in the hearts of the "Loyal sons a mighty throng." We expect a lot next fall from a man of this caliber.

FRANCIS J. WRIGHT, E., Athens, Pa.

Despite "Wright's" frequent absence from town on account of his co-operative work, which carried him to St. Louis, he likewise showed a mighty good brand of football. When it came to running down punts our "Francis" was a bear, besides showing exceptionally good work on the defensive.

SAMUEL M. BAILEY, E., Newport, Ky.

Our "Sam" or "The Engineer in Politics" is a fine example of what men can do for athletics if they care to. Outweighed by every man whom he played against by forty to sixty pounds, this plucky little engineer made things interesting for all. He was always an aggressive, scrappy, intelligent player and made things bright and jolly by occasional bits of Irish humor.

Basket-Ball Review

BASKET-BALL prospects were far from bright at the opening of the 1918 season. With but four of last year's big squad returning, Coach Morrison was forced to develop almost an entirely new team. In the early part of the season it was difficult to obtain a scoring combination. A fast, passing five, with individual guarding finally solved the problem and a marked improvement appeared in the final games.

The first game of the season was played against Ohio Wesleyan at home. The latter won out after a hard battle, 29-25. Miami took the second contest at Oxford, 43-25, winning in the last ten minutes of play. Patterson, last year's crack forward, broke his hand in this game and was out for the rest of the season. With an inferior team, Ohio University defeated Varsity in a slow and badly-played game, 26-15. The next game was a victory for U. C. Wittenberg proved to be no match for the Cincy squad, going down to defeat, 32-11. Miami won a second victory at Cincinnati, 27-18, after a fast and hard-fought game. Varsity then took a three-day trip, defeating Wittenberg a second time, 22-13. Kenyon sprung a surprise, winning a one-sided game, 52-19, due to overconfidence on the part of U. C. The final game of the season, with Ohio Wesleyan, was the hardest fought contest of the year, going to our opponents in the last minute of play, 24-21.

The most promising feature of the season was the marked improvement in passing, handling the ball, and guarding, that occurred in the last few games. Our Conference standing is not very high, two victories and six defeats, but each game was fought every minute of play.

Nine of this season's squad will return next year. Ed Bauer and Dave Hachen have played their last game. The former graduates and the latter has already played three years. Isserman, Levitch, McDiarmid, Pease, Shryock, Hall and Fick played their first college basket-ball. Goldman, Bauer, Hachen and Captain Asbury were veterans. The loss of Patterson was keenly felt but he will be in again next year, having one more season to play.

Track Review

DURING the first and second quarters of the Miami game, the cross-country men of both teams went to their marks and at the crack of the gun started out to see the sights.

Becker, of Varsity, seemed to be in a hurry, taking the lead at the first turn and maintaining it for about three hundred yards, until a long-legged Miami speedster, disliking mud specks on his shirt front, shifted into high and disappeared into the woods.

Miami took first places, but Becker and Volkert of Varsity showed good form. When one takes into consideration that the Miami men were experienced runners, and that it was the first real race for the University of Cincinnati Cross-Country Team, the results are not surprising. The Varsity men did their best and are to be commended on the showing they made.

The 1915 track team has been considered one of the best if not the best, that has ever represented Varsity in recent years. While the track squad of 1917 did not make the same brilliant showing, its scope was limited by the entrance of the United States into the present world war. The 1917 track season was limited to a few local indoor meets and one indoor dual meet with Ohio University at Athens. In the two former meets the Varsity runners made a creditable showing, while in the latter we came out at the short end of the score of 52-41. The team was handicapped severely by the absence of Captain Hill and a few other old veterans.

Cincinnati was certain to have been heard from in the Big Six, in addition to her outdoor schedule, had she had one. The Ohio meet was an opportunity for the new material to try out their spurs, and from appearances, a well-balanced track team would have undoubtedly resulted.

Remarks from Howard Stapleton

President of the Intramural League

THE basis of all inter-collegiate athletics is some form that will permit every man of the University to compete, giving all an equal opportunity, and preparing them for the more strenuous competition of the Varsity teams.

The Men's Intramural Association provides the means by which all the men are enabled to participate in some form of athletics. The association was reorganized in November and provided basket-ball, track and baseball schedules.

A large silver trophy is awarded annually to the team scoring the largest number of points in all the sports. The Braune Civils hold it at present, having won it two consecutive years.

The following were the members of the committee controlling the intramural competition: Howard Stapleton, president; C. H. Rogatzky, vice-president; Harry Somerfield, secretary; Oliver Nikoloff, treasurer and faculty representative; Robert Hopkins, Carl Frey, Charles Shryock, George Eilers, Ed Bauer, Earl Widau, Herbert Jones.

Intramural Basket Ball

THE Intramural Basket-Ball Schedule opened in the early part of December and games were played to the first of February when the exams and the closing of the men's gym because of excessive cold forced the teams to stop the series. Track then took the attention of all and it was deemed advisable to drop the remainder of the schedule.

The Sophomore Academic team appeared to be the strongest in the games that were played, leading with five victories and no defeats. The team consisting of Harvey Pease, Roy McDiarmid, Leonard Hall, Jim Cunningham and Captain Jewett downed all comers. The three former were later chosen for the Varsity squad.

The whole series was hard fought with a number of strong teams entered. The Medical College and the Braune Civil fives were close behind the leaders. The Freshman Academics and the second section Mechanics, also, had good teams. Coach Nikoloff did much to make the schedule the success that it was.

Intramural Track

THE indoor and outdoor annual track meets of the Intramural Association are always well attended and this year will be no exception. These meets will give Coach Nikoloff an opportunity to get a line on the track material at Varsity. Being just before a number of intercollegiate meets, the intramural meet will afford the best of training for a Varsity team.

The combination indoor track and field meet comes on Saturday, March 23, in the Men's Gymnasium. It will consist of the regular indoor track events with a number of field events added.

The outdoor field and track meet will be held on Carson Field, Friday, May 3, 1918. A large number of men have entered and the meet is expected to be a great success.

The proposed Varsity and Intramural track schedule for 1918 consists of:

Intramural Indoor meet	March 23
Dual meet with Ohio Wesleyan.....	March 30
Intramural Outdoor meet.....	May 3
Tri-State Interscholastic meet.....	May 4
Dual meet with Miami.....	May 11
Y. M. C. A. meet.....	May 18
Big Six meet.....	May 30-31

Intramural Baseball

AN increased interest in baseball, together with a possibility of having a collegiate team caused the adoption of a baseball schedule, extending from the middle of April to the last of May.

There is an unusual number of good baseball players at the University of Cincinnati this year and the series is expected to become very popular. Games will be played every afternoon and Saturdays on Carson Field.

The teams will be coached by Dr. Williams and Dr. Morrison, both of whom are experienced players. Nine teams have signified their intention of playing in this series, making quite a schedule to be played off in one month.

Remarks from Miss Hillas

Physical Director for Women's Athletics

AFTER reading and hearing so much about this "drive" and that "drive" we just had to be fashionable and start one of our own under the title of "The Revival of Athletics for Girls." We gained our first stronghold when the Varsity Hockey Team defeated its opponents in the first series of hockey games ever played at the University. We strengthened our position by instructing Freshmen and Sophomores in gymnasium classes so that next year we will have many reserves to call on when defending our first-line trenches.

Our next objective was Basket-Ball Hill. In a minor engagement we gained Norwood and from that point planned a scouting trip against Louisville. Although we technically won that salient, we were forced to give way when the enemy massed the referee on their side. Undaunted, we aimed other attacks at Lexington and Winchester before returning home to defend ourselves against the invasion of the enemy. Our reserves in the meantime had been engaging in mock battles, each class striving for the "Croix de Balle," i. e., the basket-ball banner.

About this time, Basket-Ball Hill lost its importance as the keynote of the situation and plans were made for the big spring drive. The Junior Navy came out of its winter quarters and successfully defended its position, completely submerging the other three navies. Finally, with preparations all made and under favorable weather, everyone went over the top resolved to subdue and control, once and for all, those arch-fiends of femininity—baseball, soccer and track. Field Day marked the culmination of all efforts!

Girls' Basket Ball

The schedule this year was a great improvement on past seasons. Although no Ohio Colleges were played, the Buckeye State showed up well in the sunny south. The practice game against Norwood High ended in a victory for U. C., by a score of 19-9. After that the team traveled to Louisville and after playing a tie lost in extra five minutes, 23-16. Determined not to lose the remaining games away from home, Cincy practiced hard for vengeance during the next two weeks. Once again the "Red-Black banner floats on high." Ky. State was downed to the tune of 19-9 and the following night the purple of Ky. Wesleyan trailed the floor after a hard-fought game, U. C. winning, 18-16.

In the return games played at Cincy the scores were:

U. C., 19	Louisville, 9
U. C., 00	Kentucky State, 00
U. C., 00	Kentucky Wesleyan, 00

Varsity will greatly miss the services of Sophie Brunhoff at center and Priscilla Fichback at guard. Both these girls have played splendidly and they can not be given too much credit. It will hardly seem like a Varsity team without "Sophie Shoot" at center. "Tutz" Bruckman put up her same old style of play, fighting at every turn and never giving in an inch of the way. As to Anita Schreck, D. Duke and Hermina Hoppe, who played their first season, they deserve all congratulations possible.

Girls' Hockey Team

THE infant sport of Girls' Athletics was received with open arms. Considering this was the first season for Hockey, Varsity did very well, coming out victorious in two out of three games with her only rival, Norwood High. The girls showed their lack of experience in the first game but, after a shift in the line-up, buckled down to victory.

There will only be three holes left by seniors, so prospects for next year look bright. It is more than likely the girls will be given an opportunity to go against our old rival, Miami. With this in view, there is no doubt that hockey will be just as popular in the coming years.

John Schmitt ("Schmitty")

"Old Schmitty," our pride and joy, has for eight long weary years kept our Carson Field in trim condition.

It is he who marks the football field, it is he who lays out the track lanes, it is he who stakes out the baseball diamonds, and it's "Schmitty" do this and "Schmitty" do that. But he manages to do it all.

We should indeed feel grateful to our "King of Carson Field," for his ever-willing manner, his cheerful smile and happy way; for few colleges can boast of having a man like our "Schmitty" to keep and watch their athletic oval.

Plain, but great, in his own quiet way.

DURING the year 1917, there was formed at the University, through the efforts of the Senior Class and the Student Council, an organization which has been called the Society of the Cincinnati. The purpose of this organization is to provide a nucleus for a strong alumni association by selecting each year from the Senior Class those students who have been most active in college affairs, during their four years at the University, and who would be most likely to continue their interest in the University after they become members of the alumni association. The following students have, through their loyalty to their Alma Mater, earned the right to be the Charter Members of this honorary organization.

STUDENT COUNCIL

THE Student Council has been the governing body of the students of the University since the days of the old University Club. The Council consists of the four class presidents, the vice-presidents of the two upper classes, and twenty other representatives elected as follows: Eight by the Seniors, six by the Juniors, four by the Sophomores, and two by the Freshmen.

The Executive Board, which ranks as one of the standing committees, consists of the Senior class president and vice-president, and two other Seniors, the Junior class president and vice-president, and one other Junior, and the presidents of the Sophomore and Freshmen classes. At least three members of the Board must be women. The Board meets once a week, its duties being to act for the Council when immediate action is necessary, to act as an intermediary between the faculty and students, and to prepare important matters for presentation at the monthly meetings of the Council.

The Student Council has just finished one of the most active years of its existence. Through the unusual success of the Student Council Vaudeville, the Council has been able to help finance the Intramural League, to contribute generously to the Y. M. C. A. War Fund, and to make a substantial loan for the Junior Prom. A change was made in the constitution of "The Cincinnati," Student Council electing the candidate to membership in the Society of the Cincinnati instead of directly voting the medals to the candidate as last year. The most important work of the year has been the establishment of a Student referendum by which the matters of vital interest to the student body may be voted upon at a general referendum.

The Co-operative Society

THE University Co-operative Society is organized for the purpose of affording the students the opportunity of buying their books and other necessities at reduced rates.

Membership is obtained by the purchase of a stamp book for five cents. A stamp is given for every ten-cent purchase, and at the close of the college year dividends are declared to the students in proportion to the profits of the Society.

Committees

THE Woman's League, founded in 1910, is an organization which comprises all of the women of the University. Its fourfold aim is to regulate all matters pertaining to the women which do not fall under the jurisdiction of the faculty, to further the spirit of unity among the women, to increase their sense of responsibility toward each other, and to be a medium by which the social standards of the University can be made and kept high.

In accordance with its purpose, the League established the University Red Cross, directing its Christmas membership campaign, and its activities of knitting and surgical dressings. At Christmas, forty-eight boxes of "goodies" were packed by the members to send to the University men at Camp Sherman.

Unusual interest has been manifested in the social affairs of the League, which have varied from a Freshman Tea, a Hallowe'en dance, Class fireside parties, a Stunt party and a May picnic, to its annual dance in the men's gymnasium.

Men's Vigilance Committee

THE Men's Vigilance Committee is an ancient and honorable institution founded with the altruistic object of inculcating into the souls of the entering students, commonly called frosh, a deep and lasting feeling of loyalty, not only to their own class but to our great and glorious ALMA MATER. While to some earnest, though short-sighted and undiscerning reformers the strenuous methods used by this organization for achieving their aims may seem to be an obsolete heritage from a pre-historic stone-age, nevertheless and notwithstanding, the motto of this self-sacrificing and industrious band of loyal Knights of the Barrel Stave, has always been and will ever remain that famous saying of the ancient philosophers, "SPARE THE ROD AND SPOIL THE CHILD."

The Commerce Club

AN organization founded on good-fellowship for the purpose of creating a more intimate friendship among the students of the College of Commerce and working for the common interest of the evening students. Competent speakers address the members at their monthly meetings after which the evening is given over to entertainment and dancing. Each year the club supplies a body of upperclassmen which acts as an advisory committee to the new students, thereby rendering valuable assistance to the college during the period of registration. The War Saving Stamp campaign in the College of Commerce was put into the hands of the Commerce Club by the faculty, and it has successfully kept in the lead of all contestants by a margin of several thousand dollars. The club has a little less than a hundred members, and it is the only organization of its kind in the evening University.

The Speaker's Club

PUTTING one's thoughts and feeling into the right terms is a thing that can be learned. Learn it." Acting upon this advice, a number of day students and night students of the University have availed themselves of the opportunity offered them, and have joined the Speaker's Club.

The meetings have been held every Tuesday evening at 6.30 in the organization's clubroom in Hanna Hall. The programs have consisted in round table discussions and debates on topics of current interest, in reviews and criticisms of pieces of present-day literature, and in practice in parliamentary proceedings. Occasionally members of the faculty of the University have addressed the club. The social affairs given monthly have made for a spirit of good-fellowship which rendered the regular meetings doubly enjoyable.

ENGINEERING TRIBUNAL

THE Student Tribunal of the College of Engineering is composed of three Seniors, one Junior, one Pre-Junior and the President of the Co-op club. The Tribunal is elected by the Engineering students for a term of one year. Its duties are administrative and judiciary. The body formulates rules for the students, tries infractions of discipline, and recommends to the faculty the action which seems most just from the student viewpoint.

The University of Cincinnati Student Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers

THIS organization has for its objects the promotion of the study of the arts and sciences connected with engineering, and the encouragement of a spirit of good-fellowship among the students of the Engineering College.

Membership is open to all of the students in the College of Engineering, Sophomores and Freshmen being eligible to become sub-members, while the students of the higher classes are entitled to student membership. After graduation, members may maintain their standing as student members for two years, at the end of which time they are eligible to enter the National organization, The American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Y. M. C. A.

ALTHOUGH it was greatly handicapped through the loss of its founder and indefatigable supporter, Fred Kenneth Hoehler, the University Association has succeeded in serving the Students and Faculty and in deepening the religious and moral life of the University.

The Handbook was again issued and is still being used by owners. The members of the Cabinet, although they also had strenuous duties in scholastic work, have uniformly been engaged in the various activities of the University, and have led in Student thought and action. Bible Classes have been held as have also weekly religious meetings.

We feel that the years of effort which Mr. Hoehler spent in building up the Association were not spent in vain and that even should the exigencies of the times demand another year of purely Student control, the Y. M. C. A. would still be able to perform much in the way of service for the University and for its members.

COLLEGE life, to be proportionate, must encourage three phases of growth—physical, mental and spiritual. It is the Y. W. C. A. that forms the third side of this triangle, giving the true symmetry to student life. The avowed purpose of this organization, locally, is

1—To make every member realize the fraternal spirit and moral responsibility of belonging to a world-wide, nation-wide organization, founded on Christ and His ideals.

2—To create an atmosphere of helpful Christian fellowship, and to co-operate with all forward movements of the University.

Phi Beta Kappa

Founded December 5, 1776

THE charter of the Delta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in the State of Ohio was granted at the Sixth Triennial National Council of Phi Beta Kappa, held at Saratoga, September 7, 1888, in response to a petition signed by forty-one members of the society resident in and near Cincinnati.

The object of the Phi Beta Kappa Society is the promotion of scholarship and friendship among students and graduates of American colleges.

The Men's Interfraternity Association

THE Men's Interfraternity Association, formerly known as the Pan-Hellenic Association, was organized during the year 1912-13. The Council of the Association consists of two delegates from each of the Chapters of the National Fraternities at the University. Business meetings are held once a month, each Chapter acting successively as host.

The fundamental purposes of this organization are to furnish a medium of relationship between the various fraternities, to govern the rushing and pledging of men, to promote college activities and to elevate the scholastic standing of fraternity men.

Alpha Kappa Psi

ALPHA Kappa Psi, the only national, purely commercial fraternity, was founded on October 5, 1904, in the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance of New York University. Immediate success and support from prominent men encouraged Alpha Chapter, then known as Phi Psi Kappa, to unite with a similar local at the University of Denver. Since then her growth has been rapid, and flourishing chapters are now located in the best commerce schools of the country.

Eta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi was founded at Cincinnati, May 24, 1914.

SIGMA SIGMA, the society of upper-classmen of the University of Cincinnati, was founded in the year 1898. Its purpose is to foster college spirit. The members are chosen on their merits alone. Sigma Sigma is a strictly local society, as its most important function, that of teaching loyalty to the University of Cincinnati, can best be performed as a local organization.

PURPOSE: To help satisfy the need at Varsity for what we term "dormitory life," by forming a small club of college girls from all classes who, by uniting divergent groups and interests, will be able to promote a more harmonious and richer college life among the girls and bind them by one more intellectual as well as social tie to old U. THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

Commandant Smith

Captain Henry

Military Science Department

By Commandant E. S. Smith.

IN April, 1917, following the entrance of the United States into the present world war, military drill was begun at the University of Cincinnati. Under Captain W. H. Parker (now Major Parker) and assistants from the Machine Gun Company, the students of the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Engineering had their first taste of preparation for warfare. Throughout the summer semester the College of Engineering students continued to drill under the direction of Professors E. S. Smith, J. H. Kindle, C. W. Park and C. R. Wylie.

The Department of Military Science was organized in September, 1917, with Lieutenant John J. Long as Commandant and Lieutenant D. K. Sadler as Assistant. When these men re-entered service in February, 1918, Professor Edward S. Smith was appointed Acting Commandant. In March, 1918, Captain Ray Henry was secured as Instructor in Military Science and Tactics.

From the beginning the students have shown a true and loyal desire to better fit themselves for service when opportunity comes. They have worked hard and faithfully to perfect their military bearing, to learn the drill regulations and to be able to execute the movements with precision. The bright spring days have made it possible to resume drill on the athletic field, and as a result the co-operation of the students has become even more keen and active. Under the capable instruction of Captain Henry, they are rapidly learning the up-to-date methods of warfare.

War Work of the University

Census—Soon after war was declared, in April, 1917, a census was taken of the faculty, alumni, and students of the University in order to ascertain their abilities, training, and capacities for war service. For this purpose cards were sent out requesting detailed information in regard to education, training, personal attainments, and equipment. Returns were received from 104 members of the faculty, 324 academic and 270 medical alumni, and 726 students. The information thus obtained was analyzed, classified and placed at the disposal of several departments of the Government. The cards were filed for future reference and have been useful in procuring men for many lines of service. At a meeting of the medical alumni residing in this section, a large list of volunteers was made up and sent to the Surgeon General of the Army. Most of these entered the Medical Corps.

Military Instruction—A Department of Military Science was established in the University in April, 1917, and all regular students of the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Engineering not physically disqualified were given military drill. Although many students enlisted at once in the various training camps, especially in the Officers' Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, about 400 took this drill during the spring of 1917; 626 were enrolled in the military department in the fall of 1917, and after further enlistments and the first draft, 432 are still engaged in military practice. All students are receiving instruction in the school of the officer. A unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is about to be established.

War Courses in the College of Engineering—Class instruction in military engineering was organized last spring in the different departments of the College of Engineering. The Department of Civil Engineering gives instruction in military topography and map making; in the construction of spar and pontoon bridges; and in the erection of various structures with knots, splicings, and lashings. The Department of Electrical Engineering teaches radio and buzzer work. The Department of Mechanical Engineering instructs in gas engineering as applied to motor transportation and aeroplanes; in the principles of mechanics involved in aeroplane construction and flight; in the design of special machine elements applicable in guns, gun carriages, and in machines for their production; in hydraulics, hydraulic machines used in the construction of ordnance, and the analysis of hydraulic recoil; in buffer mechanisms for guns; in the construction of charts; and in the principles applicable to the production of shrapnel and ordnance. Sixty selected students of draft age are enrolled in the Engineer Enlisted Reserve Corps. They are permitted to continue in their studies so as to prepare for war service, upon which they will enter immediately after their graduation.

The Government has authorized that a training camp for mechanics and technicians be opened at the University early in April. The necessary shops, laboratories, and other buildings have been placed at its disposal. The old medical college building and the gymnasium are to be used as dormitories. A number of educational institutions and commercial and industrial associations are co-operating with the University.

War Courses in the College of Liberal Arts—The College of Liberal Arts, through the Departments of Philosophy, Political Science, Economics, History, and Psychology, is conducting, in connection with external classes, a course of lectures dealing with the cause and issues of the war. A course in war gardening is being given by the Department of Botany. The Department of History is giving both day and evening courses in the history of Germany. The Department of Political Science offers a course in the problems of the war.

War Work in the College of Medicine—The Cincinnati Base Hospital No. 25 was organized by the medical faculty and the staff of the General Hospital, and the sum of $25,000 was contributed by the people of Cincinnati for its equipment. A station for the examination of candidates for aviation has been maintained by the members of the medical faculty. The entire body of medical students, numbering 102, is enrolled in the Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps.

Red Cross Institute for civilian relief is conducted by the University in co-operation with the Home Service Institute. Red Cross educational classes are being held in the Woman's Building, and another Red Cross Institute for civil relief, to be held in the same place, is projected for the summer of 1918.

The women of the University faculty and the student body have formed units for the preparation of surgical dressings and the making of hospital garments, etc., and numerous other societies have been organized for the furtherance of various war services.

All the resources of the University have been placed at the disposal of the Government for research and instruction, and several professors who have received commissions are conducting tests and investigations in the laboratories. The Professor of Accountancy and Administration has been commissioned Captain and is chief instructor in a school of the Quartermaster's Department at Jacksonville, Florida.

Our First Gold Star

Elmer Hoover Van Fleet

HE was born June 5, 1896, at Waverly, Bremer County, Iowa, the son of the Reverend John B. Van Fleet, an Episcopal minister of this city. He inherited from his grandfather, a civil engineer, a liking for mathematics, and from both his parents he derived his early instruction in the classics. He attended the University of Virginia for one year, where he maintained high scholarship. In 1914, he entered the University of Cincinnati, and gained distinction in his classes, in athletics and in general student activities, being finally elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and winning the Rhodes Scholarship for Ohio under stress of competitive examination. Gentle and unassuming, he had the gift of winning friends in all walks of life. Whether in the classroom of the University, or teaching English and citizenship to foreigners, or serving as he did for one summer with mere laborers, or entertaining and instructing a band of fellow students, or engaging in some athletic contest, he always played the game. Long will his fine example remain to those who were his classmates and his teachers, an inspiration to a nobler life.

CALENDAR

September

20—Ticket office open for Liberal Arts College. Dan Lawrence does a flourishing business for a “free” institution.

22—Varsity belles seen knitting in the Times-Star.

24—Sig Chi's look around! Gee, boys, only 123 more days of school.

25—We attend classes—how monotonous.

26—Where, oh where, are the verdant freshmen? The V. C. rejoices over the personal attention it can give this year.

28—Get Wise Meeting—“Frosh” shown the ropes.

29—Sig Chi's still looking around. ? ?

October

- 1—Barbed wire entanglements have no terrors for "Liz" Stacy.
- 2—The "perfect ladies" hold an indignation meeting and censor varsity women for jumping the rope. It's so undignified. Oh, darn!
- 3—Abduction of the girls' mail box. Girls' glee short lived, for Loueen sees to it that the Woman's Building receives its own.
- 5—Shirt Pull—Varsity women wear veils.
- 6—It's too hot for football anyway!
- 10—John Todd quits kidding and goes Delt.
- 11—Untimely arrival of coal dashes our hopes of a holiday.
- 12—Sig Chi's pledge a man. Hurrah!
"Deke" Fassett succeeds Jack Joyce as campaign boss.
- 13—Monty's life in danger! !
- 16—Fifty volunteers paste posters in saloons and elsewhere.
- 18—Dottie and Fred at last—!
- 19—V. C. entertains with a paddling party in honor of Frosh youths. Ask Morgan, he knows!
- 22—Doc shows up betimes—without Alene!
R. E. Bassett has a—shall we say beard or thicket?
- 26—Faculty augustly decrees a change in our M. W. F. schedules. Here's where Varsity men rise and shine.
- 27—Liberty Ball at Armory. At any rate the sandwiches weren't wasted, eh what, Horsie?

November

- 2—Academic Tea Dance—apparently staged for Miami visitors.
- 3—Cheer up, boys. Only 5 down and 2 to go. Let's all enjoy the nineteen.
- 5—Mid-terms coming on. Professors reserve a large corner in Hades.

Merv

BEHOLD! We're the villains who've plotted this junk,
 Evolving its camouflage while we were drunk (?)
 And if you've a grudge or a kick or a cuss,
 Just pick out your victim and finish the fuss!
 The ladies refused to enhance our sextette,
 Squee Hall seemed insulted and started to fret;
 Her temperate nature resented to pose,
 Six thorns were too much for an innocent rose!
 You'll wonder perhaps, by what means (or what money)
 This bunch was selected to be very funny;
 Well—Winans collected the scandal and news,
 Which Hop spiced with flavor and gentle abuse;
 And Cliff spent whole hours of well misspent time,
 Converting these efforts to meterless rhyme;
 The wit was supplied by Boone's restless, young tongue,
 (For many a lesser word, men have been hung!)
 Ed's patter is bright and his nature is sunny,
 And Mervin, you know, is well-known to be—funny!
 Now, if we have caused you to smile by our wit,
 We think we have fully accomplished "our bit;"
 We all have our faces above on this page,
 And if you get peeved or incited to rage,
 Just tear out our photos and raise a big yell
 And wish us a trip to the center of—Germany!

"Charlie"

Chandlerian Art

Ibsen and Bjornsen and Hauptmann and Shaw
Spout forth their raptures of women and law,
But over these playwrights, there rises serene,
The smiling, pink count'nance of dear, dimpling Dean.

With eyes fairly dancing, he holds forth in glee,
Of nearly nice ladies who went on a spree,
And charmingly pictures in accents divine,
The dancing of Pippet and Spitter's decline.

He'll camouflage plays so they'll seem what they're not,
He'll say clever things that might mean quite a lot!
He dotes on fair Romance, its pomp and its glamour
And renders delectable all "Modern Dramer!"

The Dance of Hubertis Maurice

Hubert Maurice, lover of peace,
Thought that his life of seclusion must cease.
Looking askance, he learned how to dance
And followed the lead of Terpsichore's prance.

Down at the Zoo, everyone knew,
Hubertis was learning the fox-trot anew,
He sacrificed "rep," to substitute "pep,"
Entangling himself in a daring one-step!

Mustaches

Oh, ruby lips so fair and strong,
Hide not behind a hirsute throng
Of youthful, weak-kneed, striving hair
Unused to daylight's potent glare.

Deac Fassett's crop of full grown bristle
Stands out when he begins to whistle;
And Bookstore Haehnle's group of fuzz
Hides far from sight. It always does!

Another Ag. is Whitey Rover,
Who's raised a field of pure white clover,
And with the aid of microscope,
You'll see the need of shaving soap.

Who said that Cliff Furst's lip was soiled?
For weeks and weeks, he's wildly toiled,
And tended it with loving care,
How long, ye gods, will it be there?

To end the tale: Bill Myers' brush
Has ceased the stage of milk and mush;
Its dirty blonde grows fast apace,
Six times Sig Alphs have washed his face!

And when you co-eds read this tale,
Judge lightly. They're but humans frail,
Who, fighting germs in deadly fear,
Have raised a bush to strain—the beer!

Why They Call It "Cross Country"

Diddi was a farmer bumpkin,
Ploughed and sweated, raked and hoed;
Turnips, spinach, corn and onions,
One by one, he washed and sowed.

Night and day he looked for symptoms
Of a bit of sprouting green,
But his rusty, rotten lantern
Couldn't find a single bean!

To and fro, each day he sprinted
Over stones and rails and moss,
And that's why they all persisted
That he made the country cross.

Ask Meta—She Knows!

Modest Meta Miller
Wouldn't pose for print,
So we had to hold her,
And—she tried to squint!

Wrong again! It's only Hop
Holding her so tight;
Don quite unsuspecting,
Sauntered out of sight.

Meta, like the woman scorned,
Soon began to rave;
Hop, the villain, clinched, and won,
He is oh! so brave.

After all was over,
Meta quickly fled;
But in stagey whispers,
She quite sweetly said:

"I'm just simply furious!
They'll all think I'm vain!
If the picture's rotten,
Er—may I pose again?"

Seven Stages of Harry

Old Harry has had a varied career,
From pulpit to farm to pretzels and beer.

He's seen much of beans, and criminals and deans,
He's sold fly-catchers and flivers and greens.

At first he kept a general store,
In Bunghole on the crick,
One day he sold a tin gobboon
To a lop-eared, shambling Hick,
Who brought it back for an exchange
Because he couldn't find the range.
And Harry quit.

Then next as Barnums only rival
He went from place to place,
Taking scenes and business men
And many a winsome face.
One day he took a fat cream pie,
So we report with a heartfelt sigh
That Harry quit.

Then for the ministry he tried,
He studied night and day.
He learned Greek nouns and Hebrew
"voids"

And boned his life away.
Then Harry forswore the world and
its whirls,
But as a preacher he married eight
girls—
Then Harry quit.

Next Harry tried the farming game
And got a patch of ground.
He got a hoe, he got a rake
And then he puttered 'round.
But all he raised with all these things
Was a ten-cent pot on a pair of kings.
And Harry quit.

As detective next he posed,
And sneaked around the town,
With gum-shoes, duster and bull dog
pipe,
To run the villain down.
He shadowed husbands and raided
dives,
But all he caught was a case of hives.
Then Harry quit.

Next he had a telegraph job
And buzzed and jiggered away.
He dashed and dotted and scribbled
and blotted
For seven dollars pay.
You've noticed his watch—a neat
little trick—
His experience did it—He got it on
"tick."
Then he quit.

And now he's Annual Manager;
He peddles full page space,
He sends out bills and writes receipts
All with a seeming grace,
'Till once a guy, whom he had got,
Paid his bill upon the spot—
Then Harry fainted.

Cubists

“Come you seven!” Do you ever
Hear such terms in lower halls?
Never fear, Pre-Medics merely
Study Chem. within their walls.
You can always hear stern voices,
In the practised M. D. tones,
Coaxing antiseptic sevens
To the rattle of the bones.

At The Pan Dance

Sing a song of twenty cents,
Bradleigh full of rye.
Four and twenty blacksnakes
Danced before his eye.
When his eye was opened,
His head was on a chair,
His feet were in the ice-box,
His shoes were on the stair.
His brain felt like a load of mud,
His tongue was just as large.
Now wasn't he a pretty mutt
To go before his Marj?

The Artful Ingenue

Young Marion of the Pickford locks
Would be divine in bib and socks;
Her guileless ways and ceaseless chatter
Would even make the Germans scatter.
So if you wish to gain the favor

Just whisper with an accent mild,
“Oh, Marion, you are such a child!”

Sam Todd and Herb Winans, a gossiping pair,
Whose secrets and scandals are juicy and rare;
They know every move of the cook and the Dean,
And relish good burlesque—at U. C. we mean.

They study the marks posted out on the board,
They know every student who handles a Ford,
And just who is taking out Helen tonight,
And gossip of Betas who comes home—er—tight!

At pedigree-hunting, they spend all their time,
And know who’s got millions, or only a dime.
They list all the “stews” who are known to stand treat,
And know how much free lunch at “Meck’s” they can eat.

Beware then, full well, of this gossiping twain;
They’ll find in your past, a dark scandalous stain,
And, buzzing about with mysterious grins,
They’ll busily gossip, these Siamese twins.

Why Girls Leave Home

A charming group of beauties,
Before McMicken Hall,
Admired the young Adonis,
Divine, supreme, and—tall!
And from his lips, there gurgled
Sweet words, each phrase a pearl;
But oh! At closer view we saw
Adonis change to Earl.

Eva Tanguay’s had her day,
“I don’t care” is quite passe.
There’s a new one now, of course,
And we call her “Mary Morse.”

Fascinating Pete

When Charlotte dreams, she dreams of Pete
Beside her on an auto seat;
He writes long rhymes, he calls her dove,
Fear not! It's only puppy love!

For Pete makes eyes at any kid
Who's young enough to grab his bid;
This cradle crook will make a date
With any infant under eight!

He snares them with a verse of mush
All dripping with his famous gush,
And makes 'em think he's awful rough,
But soon they learn,—it's only guff!

Oh, Pete, your group of nurs'ry folk
Each day becomes a better joke;
These lisping mites, impressed with awe,
Do they (by chance) e'er call you—"Pa?"

Grounds for Spats

Marjie had a pair of spats,
Which were as white as snow,
And every where that Nicky went
The spats were sure to show.

The styles, they changed one winters day
To charming tones of brown.
Now Marjie sports the same old spats,
Renewed with coffee grounds.

To a Shallow Poole

Oh, Allyn of the vacant stare,
That awful grin is hard to bear,
For surely, it is plainly seen,
There's vacancy within your bean!

The Poole spouts:
This is a candy gun, you see,
I'll shoot you if you laugh at me;
I think I'm great; the girls all sigh
When I approach; I wonder why?

I sing, I dance, oh yes, I draw!
You know I'm witty too, Haw! Haw!
And when I tell a clever pun,
I wonder why they start to run!

I only go with clever girls,
There's one I like with real long curls;
But still I give them all a treat,
You know I think I'm awful sweet!

I'm always sober, never full,
I carry 'round a line of bull;
That's why the women, when they flee,
Can't help it, 'cause they fall for me!

The Miami Game

University Boys Win the State Knitting Championship from Miami at Cincinnati

On Friday afternoon in a close, hard-fought contest, the boys' knitting team defeated Miami by three stitches. Our boys gaily clad in their blue, green, white, grey, pink, yellow and orange uniforms, worked well together, the temperature of the room being three degrees lower than the one they had been practicing in for the last seven months, it was feared that some stiffness of the team's hands and fingers might result. The boys knitted courageously and won out in brilliant style. It is said that the tricky Miami boys, by training in cool rooms, sometimes as low as seventy-four degrees, have acclimated themselves to the atmospheric conditions which often discomfit their opponents.

Our boys were just grand—and you could see the true Cincy spirit emulating with every stitch of their needles. Miami used the short fast Australian jab which worried our boys at first, but they rapidly overcame their nervousness—slipped back into their long, even, easy confident American poke. After the twenty-yard mark had been passed, the two teams were point to point—but a burst of speed by Pearl Button put us two stitches in the lead. There was an awful moment towards the last, when it looked as though Hazel Nutt had dropped a stitch, but a count by five of the umpires proved this to be wrong—I tell you it was a nasty moment.

Pearl Button, Lotza Yarn and Nittan Nahways did some good work for our side. Droppa Stitch knitted well for Miami but was poorly supported and had bad interference.

The crowd was good, and the respectful silence was only broken once during the game, when an old lady fainted from the terrible excitement, and had to be carried out. Our boys came through the grind in excellent condition, and after a few hours rest recovered enough to chat about the contest and even to attend a dancing class or two. Now after the brutal and crude game of Football has been laid away with Track and such, it seems as though Cincinnati has found her place. We have modest hopes of a State Championship next year also—Let us give our boys a silent cheer!

The Movies on The American College

You have to hand it to the moving picture producers. They can omit the ash barrels from any old alley, run off a scene, call it a city street of ancient Babylon, and you will gasp in wonder at the realistic effect. They can take a snowball and a gum drop and set up a whole Alaskan romance on any vacant lot, and the public shivers in sympathy. We perspire over great desert scenes taken within fourteen feet of the surf, and fan ourselves with "next week's program." Then we get a reel of "college life" and the sand is in the gear box.

A perfectly simple every day scene that could be copied from any one of a thousand Universities with justifiable effectiveness becomes something like this.

Reggie, wearing a purple and green blazer and white flannel trousers, sits on the chest of drawers hysterically playing a ukelele. Rollo lolls on the sofa thrumming a banjo and supposedly singing. The room is evidently at some famous college, because the walls are hung with pennants, tennis racquets, pennants, ice skates, pennants, snow shoes, pennants, hockey sticks, pennants, pictures of chorus girls, and then some pennants and pictures of chorus girls. Having this simple decoration of unclassified hardware on the walls, the ceiling is done in neat white, while Indian blankets adorn the lounge, and pillows occupy all the chairs and remaining floor space. The time of day is a bit uncertain but that is of minor importance. Rollo suddenly jumps up and looks out the window. Ah, there is Gerald in his new Stevens-Panhard-Issota-Chesterfield. Rollo and Reggie trip gracefully down a flight of stairs one would expect to find in the palace of the Sultan of Persia, and join Gerald in his multi-handled submarine.

The boys take a short ride of a hundred miles or so to Lake Minnie, a neighboring town, where they meet quite unexpectedly three charming lady friends. They take them to dinner, of course, and to a dance, naturally, and then take them home, assuredly. Then they come back to the neat little room decorated with pictures and Spaldings sporting goods where Reggie finds he has lost his watch. They go back after the watch—we'll omit that part, but a plot is cleverly concealed somewhere.

The three chums return once more to their room (time still indefinite) just in time to find that they must run down to Atlantic City for a house party. This they do, etc. After following them and the plot madly for an interminable period, the picture ends cleverly with a triple marriage. A very interesting bit of "college life" and atmosphere. We know it was a story of college life because the title said so. Anyway one of the pros sent them a telegram of congratulation.

Mills No. 1,
Remote, Present.

Dear Gus:

Let me slip you the happy flapper on the 10th-round decision to cram your brain-pan plumb overflowing at Cincy's Temple of Teaching. Perk up your listeners to this tip from Pa Chestyfield. Breeze into this burg with your Sunday-go-to-Epworth-League outfit on your hide. The big idea is to be all set when the fraternities give you the grand north and south. If you stack up as a well-groomed, sleek tea hound, the Sigs will rush you bleary-eyed. The Sig Alphas will plant you in their debris if they think you eat furniture, when annoyed. Duck the Beta Boys if you have with you your baby pink and blue B. V. X's. Also if the conductor disdains your dough, or the porter lets you puff your El Ropo Manillo unmolested, grab onto the floor and try to look sober. They might be Phi Delt's in disguise. If, knowing you're sober, they try to make friends anyway, close one nose, place the left thumb behind the right eyebrow and hiss, "Kitzmiller." Don't get any crow feet around your blinkers on account of the Delt's. They won't know you till everybody else has asked waivers on you. If you lamp a ten-ton dray backed up to the station curb, loaded to the gunwales with children not like others from birth, step nonchalantly into the nearest manhole until the Pi Kap Special has rolled up the hill. If you hear a noise that would make the combined efforts of T. R. and W. J. B. sound like a clam with a cold and if you see a couple of fellows conversing as though their arms would break, haul out your emerald A. O. H. button and grin when you see a bock beer sign. This will confuse the S. A. M's.

[page two hundred and eighty-one]

There I go, Gus, beefing like the oldest inhabitant. It would take Frank Byers ten years with the Congressional Library, a horseshoe and a glass eye to dope out how I gained these many pearls of wisdom in a few days. I'm not unimproved property between the ears and I've been able to put three and one together. So sit tight and I'll chirograph a daily dope sheet about each gang here at Varsity.

Yours in a state of flux,
BOY HENRY.

Clifton Springs Distillery,
Cumminsville, O.

Cher Gus:

Draw in your neck, son; you sure have more crust than a loaf of rye, to think that because your thirty-second cousin was a Sigma Chi, the local union of that federation would welcome you with polished talons. Honest, Gus, your last letter intimating such a boner made me laugh so much that I sank my floating rib. Several years ago your alibi might have been good but not during these days of the Rover, Miller, Fenley Syndicate, said three being the power behind the chiffonier in the Cig loft. Had you been orderly to the late V. Castle or related to some heel-clinging, perfect thirty-six of old Madrid, you would sail in on the ebb tide. The Cigs throw their rush parties at the Grand Dansant. We always know when one of their matches is coming off when Whitey Rover sports a bull-teaser tie on the Campus. They soak you a jit per round at the afore-said happy hunting ground of the Cigs, which has so drained their old sock under the loose brick in the kitchen hearth, that their motto is "in hoc."

Whitey Rover's Sig Pin

The alumni don't patronize the active chapter much. You see, some of them are over-patriotic and try to carry home a package which should be sent in a taxicab. The old boys can't negotiate the zig-zag climb to the Cig roost in the dog watch. If you still wish to run with the hairs and bum with the hounds, sneak out in the barn and practice terpsichoping, see-sawing your arms slowly like a Dutch mill in an April zephyr, thus winning Fenley's vote. Then drag your pins and slouch along like an unpressed pair of pants, thereby acquiring Millers' ballot, and finally, if you hang a cardinal ribbon on your Adam's cider mill, Whitey will give you your choice of the eight or five maltese crosses on his angora shirt front. Yours "in hoc,"

BOY HENRY.

Ivorydale-by-the-Bath-tub,
'Lo Gus: About to dive.

Get out the sandpaper collar. I have just been carried from a Sig Alph party and believe me that gang is rougher than a Crosstown conductor. Last fall they slaughtered the innocents to the number of a couple of dozen. Since the round up, the husky frosh have been running the outfit on the old "blut und eisen" lines so that the house looks like the Huns just had another engagement.

Bill Myers' Sig Alph Pin

The fair sex at the party were coparisoned in their street trappings. I wasn't jerry to the idea until one of the young things tipped me off that she couldn't afford to dirty her Easter equipment every time the Sig Alphas threw their weekly party. Believe me, Gus, it takes a lot to swallow that but Old Dutch is a good chaser.

Boone Armentrout is a Sig Alph but he thinks a lot of the Phi Deltas. In fact, they are always on his mind. Being a gentleman, he don't say it, being a lady, I can't guess, but you being neither, will readily understand. At least he says that, as Brothers of the Arm and Hammer, the Phi Deltas make the well-known Tri Delt knock-er look like a last year's dog license.

You gotta hand it to the Sig Alphas. Last fall the Phi Deltas spiked a rube before he had got a second lungful of Campus breathing material. The Sig Alphas put on the war paint and saved six freshmen whom the Phis were violently wooing.

Fos Hopkins and Babe Frey, the backbone of the Frosh Football Team, and Don Hall, the funny-bone, are Sig Alphas. Their favorite past-time is messing up the quarters, then cleaning up with the upperclassmen.

Song:

Oh— The Sig Alphas
They hook all signs and billiard balls,
And yell like high school frats,

Don Patterson's Beta Pin

Dusty Altamer's Phi Delta Pin

They heave alarm clocks down the halls,
And rip the tops from two-bone hats;
Bust up the beds, back, sides and
slats,
Knock out the lights with poles and
bats,
And interrupt the neighbors' spats,
By drowning their speaking
In shrieking and squeaking,
In fifty different sharps and flats.
Yours in plaster casts,

BOY HENRY.

kneed, ring-boned, slab-chested, wall-
eyed son of a coyote.

Every pearly morn they sweep in

Never a moment but that they twist
a courteous tongue to a palpitant public, especially bestowing gobs of goo on gullible girls. It is inspiring

Hurdle into the pink kimona, blue whiskers and smoked goggles when you amble down Highland Boulevard or you're liable to open the peepers next morn with a burning, velvet interior finishing and an imitation Cinnati Gym button on your pyjamas. The more hay in your hirsute accompaniments and the less dope you have on William Raimond Baird, the quicker the Phi Delts will tag you.

These wops are very modest and retiring, in fact, to take a chance slant at them, one would never suspect they were fraternity men at all.

Dainty and alluring Holliday Zwick is head-pin (or vice-versa) in this set-up gang, but his word carries about as much weight as the Czar's cigar butt. Earl Widau is taking a fly at Billy Sundayizing the herd and to that end is trying to make them quit mailing pledge buttons to farmers still on the R. F. D.

This mystic circle is a political ring. As a wire-puller, Deac Fassett has the foreman of the Baldwin Piano Factory lashed to a John Street fire plug. Believe me, Gus, some of the stuff they put across in this bailiwick would make Tammany pull the quilt over his beezor and yell for St. Peter to let down the bars. Fassett's coup de theatre is roping in the co-ops on election day. It's all so simple. Why are they there? To applaud Svengali Fassett's Trilby. Why can't Trilby refuse to trill? 'Cause the audience is there to applaud.

The Phi Delts can spread the goo and enmesh any unsuspecting frosh in their tanglefoot unless Boone Armentrout unlimbers his mellifluous lingo, in which case they sound like a hair-lipped Russian cavier chirping S. O. S. to its mate.

Yours, bottled "In the bond,"
BOY HENRY.

Study Room,
The Library.

Dearest August:

I'm all of a quiver! I feel so unnecessary—I—I just met Romy and he is the nicest thing. He took me out to see Ruth, and Alma, and Charlene, and—oh, all the girls, and they treated him just like one of them. But—ssssh! those were rush parties for my benefit. When he has one for his own benefit he rushes a certain little vivacious Avondale brunette in Burnet Woods. Ssssh! Nobody knows this. He works that small-town-man-of-the-world stuff—you know, that others-are-weak-but-I-am-platonic - and - hygienic moralising. The little girl tells me she is watching his case with interest. He responds readily to treatment.

Chuckling the tea room patter. Gus, old soup-bone, I want to tell you about the Delts. They're perfect dears about their lessons and have frozen onto the scholarship plaque, thereby beating out all but the Sigs, who don't know there is such a thing. Again, Romy is the boy that does the trick, making bones and grinds of the rest of the chapter, while his own grades could be climbed by an Overland with three T. B. lungs.

This crew has rented an asylum on Howell Avenue, being surrounded on one side by profs and on the other by the civic dump. Quiet aesthetic. Haehnle says the environment is strategic from a rushing viewpoint as rushees can be conducted on a rodent chase over the can cemetery. The first guy to find a mice gets to kiss Romaine.

P. Mills rushes the can, and when his "old tinnen bucket" wears out he can Hooverizingly fall out the porte cochere and snare another in its native habitat.

Doc Rogatzky, the Delta Zeta mascot, is a Delt and is the young feller to swing the co-op vote, solid—the other way.

Like the Chi O's who advertise by donating a prize for social welfare work, the Delts also reward male leaders in student activities. Each year a certain number of upperclassmen are given as a badge of merit a small square gold medal with concave sides. This they wear proudly when not in need of a suspender button.

Yours in three years,

BOY HENRY.

The City Pound,
Dog Days.

Gus:

Your letter to left hand. I lament that you noted an advertisement for the P. K. A. Boarding Club, stating they had several choice lofts in their establishment at reduced rates. Gus the first shelf of their joint shines like a new saloon—the second stratum would get by the fire inspector if he were a Sig Alph, but the belfry looks like a Sixth Street market stand late Saturday night—roof, rats, and rub-bish.

The financial system in this small-pox sanatorium was a bet overlooked by Ad. Smith. After the pledging season, when an installment on the old homestead falls due or the corner feed store sends them an "at home" notice, Babe Jones passes a jit to Kes Schoepf, gets off at the Medic College and heaves the bones a few and receipts come in with the next mail. When the draft law went through, Talcott feared financial reverses, but Babe was exempted as he was necessary to an industry—Mecklenburg's.

Seen through the social periscope this covey of birds is very bashful. Every noon they clear out for their own kitchen. Here they swing table tools unmolested and avoid the struggle for existence in the Commons. Each of the crew has his own stoking instruments to fill his bunkers. If one of the brothers gets familiar with another's tools, he is liable to find himself in the sewer next morning with toothmark on himself.

Bill Talcott is a Pi Kap. There are exceptions to all rules.

Gus, you ought to appreciate these tips, as this is the most truly secret organization at the University. Few have ever heard of the fraternity, few have been in their clay mansion, and few can tell just who are Pi Kaps except by their finger-prints—on their collars.

Yours in volved,

BOY HENRY.

The Fable of Sir Contract and Olive Drab

Far down at the feet of Sir Contract, there sprawled
The form of a pen which obligingly scrawled
A name or a line or a blot or a stain,
Which meant that fair Olive was courted again. :

Fair Olive sat coyly within a great store,
Just dying to travel to Germany's shore,
Or even to France, where all Paris would bend,
Saluting fair Olive as sister and friend.

Sir Contract announced, and his foemen entrenched,—
Fair Olive just waited 'til Contract was quenched;
The foeman fought hard, for they loved Olive Drab,
And wished her in Berlin, not cooped in a lab.

And lo! In the midst of the rush and the roar,
Sir Contract, who vanished, was heard of no more;
But those who had aided Sir Contract to fight
Prevented fair Olive from making her flight.

Her spirit has fled to the trenches and hills,
But Co-ops have held her to gaze on their drills;
Sir Contract is vanquished, the Arts men have won,
Their Olive has hastened to batter the Hun.

Moral:

The moral which follows has proven quite so,
Sir Contract is always a terrible foe;
For when he is sought without proper debate,
Beware of foul trouble—it's always too late!

The Call of the Business World

Business Communities as well as the Government are eager to secure the services of educated young men and women who are thoroughly trained in modern business methods.

If you want to prepare for Civil Service positions or expect to enter the business world with its countless opportunities to achieve success—if you want to make sure your efforts will be well rewarded—take a course in a recognized commercial school. In this community Campbell graduates take precedence over all others. Courses include Civil Service Training, bookkeeping, shorthand and touch typewriting.

Love Taps

Freshman naughty?
Senior haughty.
Talked to dame?
Take his name!
Then too soon
Friday noon:
Poor boy's fate!
Now too late.
"Vig'lance" comes;
Bunch of bums.
Get a stick,
Take your pick.
Witness tells,
Whitey yells,
Freshman quakes,
Paddle shakes,
Freshman bends,
Trouser rends.
Then a crack!
What a smack!

Ouch! A shriek!
(ac$,*†‡¶!?) This is Greek!
'Nother swat,
Bring the cot!
Seven more,
Then a roar
And a bellow
Freshman yellow!
Had enough?
Don't get rough!
Freshman fools
Learn your rules!
Come to games,
Can the dames!
Freshmen sup
Standing up.
Moral's last,
Say it fast!
Freshman flesh
Be not fresh!

The Bridge of Sighs

One more unfortunate
Holding his breath,
Goes to the mail-box
Scared to death.

Look at his countenance,
Pale as from pestilence,
While cold sweat constantly
Drips from his forehead;
He seeks out his envelope,
Not loving but loathing.

He takes it up tenderly,
Handles it with care;
Wondering tremblingly
How many cons are in there.

Touch it not scornfully,
But think you mournfully,
How you have trifled;
Had you two hours or three,

Studied each night faithfully,
They'd not be so frightful.

Alas for the rarity
Of Christian charity
Among the profs!
Oh it was pitiful
From a whole class-ful
Such marks were his lot.

The thought of his marks,
Made him tremble and shiver,
But not the Suspension Bridge,
And the black flowing river.

Mad from English History,
And all the mystery
Of Physics and Math.
He jumped in his Flivver,
Down to the river,
He drowned all his wrath.

Alas and woe! That hunk o' scrap
Will land within the catcher's lap!

Election day was coming fast,
When through the corridors there passed
A smiling, bowing, scraping lad,
A sweet and soothing, syrupy tad,
A super-sentimental soul,
Who sought to reach his gilded goal
By lunching in our Commons whirl
And laughing with most any girl.
He advertised himself until
He was well-known as Pinkham's Pill.
While he salaamed and gurgled discreet,
The men stood round in batches neat.

Their smiling lips the legend bore—

Globe-Wernicke

Sectional Bookcases

THREE main considerations guide the home maker in selecting the Globe-Wernicke Sectional Bookcase. The first is its intrinsic beauty, judged simply as a fine piece of furniture.

The second is the wonderful flexibility of the Globe-Wernicke Sectional idea. You need purchase only as much book-storing space as you need and then add new sections as the book collection grows.

The third is that group of mechanical superiorities which are patented and exclusively Globe-Wernicke — such all-important features, for example, as the patented noiseless-closing, easy-opening, roller-bearing, dust-excluding doors, the non-warping backs, and the double-service feet.

All are described in Catalog No. 118 C. U. which shows the many Globe-Wernicke styles at many prices, and suggests many pleasing schemes of interior decoration.

Business Demands TRAINED MEN BE ONE

If you are ambitious to advance, you must possess organized technical knowledge of business as a science, a broad perspective of business as a whole, and the ability to formulate sound business judgments.

Characteristics of the Y. M. C. A. Course in Accountancy and Business Administration

The co-ordination of the text material in Accounting, Economics, Law, and Principles of Organization, Management, and Finance.

The practical connection between the subjects of study and the needs and conditions of actual business life.

The small classes, which enable the instructors, who are practicing accountants and lawyers, to pay special attention to each student.

VARSIANS

You are all interested in the publicity which is accorded our University. You delight in reading uncolored, accurate accounts of VARSITY'S activities in every branch of endeavor. It is a waste of time for a college student to read sensational news. Therefore, it is "up to you" to obtain the best news medium in the city in order to make authoritative statements, to be well read and to hold your place as an educated person. You will find only one absolute and reliable newspaper in Cincinnati. The

The University of Cincinnati

Comprises the following departments:

The Graduate School

For advanced study in non-professional courses, leading to the degree of Master of Arts after one or two years of resident study and of Doctor of Philosophy after three years of resident study and the presentation of a satisfactory thesis.

The McMicken College of Liberal Arts

Offers many undergraduate courses for students seeking liberal culture or preparation for professional study.

The University in 1912 extended its regular Liberal Arts classes to cover five evenings in the week. Thirty-five courses are now offered.

External classes of college grade are given in the afternoons in libraries and public school buildings.

The College for Teachers

Under the joint management of the Board of Education of Cincinnati and the University. Offers four-year courses fitting for positions in elementary education; more extended courses fitting for positions in secondary education.

In co-operation with the Public School System, Kindergarten Training School, and Art Academy, two-year courses are offered leading to teachers' diplomas and state certificates in various special subjects. Graduate courses in education, accepted for advanced degrees, are also offered. Graduates of the College are ranked on a preferred list and receive appointment in the Cincinnati schools at an initial salary which is $150 higher than that paid appointees from the second list.

The College of Medicine

Offers a four-year course leading to the degree of M. D.

A six-year combined course in the University leads to the degrees of B. S., M. D.

The Cincinnati General Hospital, the Tuberculosis Hospital, and the College Dispensary offer unequalled clinical facilities.

The School of Nursing and Health

Provides a three-year course leading to the diploma of graduate nurse; and a combined collegiate and professional course of five years leading to a Bachelor of Science degree, as well as to the diploma of graduate nurse.

The College of Engineering

Offers regular courses and co-operative courses in chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical, and metallurgical engineering. The regular courses cover four, and the co-operative, five years. In the co-operative courses the students work alternate fortnights in shops and foundries, on railroads and highways, etc.

The College of Commerce

Organized in 1912 in continuation of the Cincinnati College of Commerce. Courses in commerce accounting, business organization and administration, contracts, banking and investments.

The School of Household Arts

Provides general training in house planning and management; professional training for teachers of household arts and science in elementary and secondary schools, of extension and rural work, and of trade schools; complete courses for institutional managers, dietitians, lunchroom managers.

The Astronomical Observatory

Research in astronomy, courses in astronomy for students, and demonstrations for citizens and pupils of the schools.

The Library

Separate building with reading rooms, seminary rooms, etc., containing 91,000 bound volumes.
